

Samsung har opnået en fornem international hæder for sin nye serie indenfor IP- og digitale telesystemer, OfficeServ.

Både OfficeServ 100 og 500 vandt ved prisuddelingen i det engelske tidsskrift "What do buy for business". Prisuddelingen er baseret på objektive tests på forskellige tekniske og funktionelle parametre på de konkurrerende systemer på markedet.

OfficeServ 100 fik topplacering i sin kategori "Low to Mid Systems" - en kategori for systemer, der egner sig til mindre og mellemstore virksomheder med op til 100 lokalnumre.

OfficeServ systemerne erobrede endvidere de 2 bedste af af 3 pladser i "Good Value" vurderingen om systemernes egnethed til IP-telefoni.

I Danmark forhandles Samsungs telesystemer af DanDial Networks A/S. Kontakt os på tlf. 7012 2212 eller via www.dandial.dk

Samsung Communications is delighted to announce that its successful OfficeServ platform has won prestigious accolades from an independent international business publication.

In their February issue, the UK published 'What to Buy for business' magazine has released their 2005 report for business telephone equipment. And the results for Samsung just couldn't be better.

"The magazine 'What to Buy for Business' is well respected for the integrity of their review process. The awards are made only after a thorough review and analysis is conducted of all products submitted," explains Samsung Communications Managing Director, Chris Lynch.

"We're delighted to have won this recognition as it is based on determination of performance, price and overall value for money. These characteristics are precisely what the Samsung OfficeServ range is all about."

"The 'What to Buy for Business' awards validated what our customers have known all along," says Chris Lynch. "The Samsung range of OfficeServ business telephones really are winners!"
